OLD BILL GOT THE BIRDS

Truthful Person Comes to the Front With Story of Really Remarkable Shooting.

"Speaking of good shots," said Truthful, "the best shot I ever saw was Bill Silvers, who used to hunt out here in the early days. Bill learned the gunmaker's trade when he was young and I want to say that he was some mechanic when it came to that. He invented a gun which he made himself that beat any of these here modern guns for long distance and accuracy. He might have made a fortune out of it if he had put it on the market, but Bill just naturally didn't care for money and just made one gun and quit at that."

"One day there was a flock of pigeons flying across the country. In those early days there was a terrible lot of wild pigeons. There ain't any more of them now, but people who are able to recollect back 40 years remember when there were millions and millions of them. This flock was flying so high that they weren't visible to the naked eye, but Bill used long-distance field glasses when he shot with that gun. The fellers in the camp said they would like to have a mess of birds and Bill said he would just go out and shoot a dozen or so."

"As I said, this flock was flying so high that the birds weren't visible to the naked eye and when Bill said he would shoot a dozen or so the cook gave a derisive laugh and said, 'You dogged fool, there ain't no pigeons within a thousand miles of here.'"

"Bill didn't say nothing in reply—just took his gun and field glasses and began shootin' in the air. The cook looked at him a minute and then said to the other fellers, 'Ol Bill has sure been fillin' up on loco weed and gone plumb crazy. Just look at the old fool out there shootin' holes in the air.'"

"Bill paid no attention to the remarks of the cook—went right along shootin' until he had fired 12 shots—then he came in and put up his gun in the corner of the shack. That was just about seven o'clock in the morning. At a quarter past eleven the birds began to fall. There was 12 of 'em and every one of 'em shot through the head. They was so high when they was hit that it took 'em just four hours to hit the earth."

"All the cook said when he picked up the birds was, 'Ol Bill wasn't so durned crazy after all.'—Farmers Mail and Breeze.

Law's "Reasonable Doubt." Ordinarily everybody knows what "reasonable doubt" means, and what the law means when it says that the prisoner cannot be convicted if the jury has a reasonable doubt of his innocence. But when the judge gives a dozen instructions on reasonable doubt, it is clear that nobody could understand what is meant.

St. Augustine, when questioned about a doctrine of the church, said: "If you ask me, I don't know; but if you don't ask me, I know very well."

The result is, in any important case, that the confused jury goes out to find a verdict, taking with them an armful of instructions. Melville Davison Post writes in Saturday Evening Post. Half of these instructions will tell them that if they believe certain things, they must find the prisoner guilty and the other half will tell them that if they believe other things they must acquit the prisoner, and sometimes the instructions will be so drawn that, upon the statement of the same beliefs one instruction tells them to acquit the prisoner and the other tells them to convict him. So they do not know what to do, and probably toss up a penny on the verdict.

Passed Up Hot Coffee.

It was bitterly cold. The woman, standing in her warm kitchen, where the thermometer registered 75, and looking out at the man putting a load of coal into her cellar, shivered. She noticed how red his face had grown from the incessant slapping of the wind; she saw he wore no overcoat, that his throat was not bundled about as it should be, that his gloves were poor, cheap affairs. Pity for the man filled her heart and when he had finished shoveling in the last of the coal she opened the door and spoke to him.

"You must be very cold. Don't you want to step inside by the kitchen fire and get warm, and let me get you something hot? I will give you a cup of steaming hot coffee."

"Lady," replied the coal man, "if you have any good whisky I'll come in for a swaller or two, but I don't care nothin' about coffee—coffee 's no good for a feller when he's as cold as I am."

And the kind-hearted lady had to let him go away, suffering.

His Farm Is Tramps' Haven.

Henry Heft, a good-natured farmer of near Adamstown, gave lodging to 595 tramps during the past year. Every hobo calling at his country place is given a comfortable place to sleep, and meals. In return the guests always do chores about the farm. In all his experience, Heft has never had any trouble with those whom he sheltered. His record shows the January guests numbered 34; February, 32; March, 83; April, 83; May, 64; June, 71; July, 37; August, 70; September, 32; October, 18; November, 35; and December, 33.—Reading (Pa.) Dispatch Philadelphia Record.

Looking Ahead.

"I don't see how in the world Edith can marry that old Mr. Rockelay." "I do. It's the only possible way she can become his widow."

She Was Smothering.

Rockford, Ala.—Mrs. M. C. Paschal, of this place, says: "I was taken with nervous prostration, and had headache, backache, pains in my right side, and smothering spells. I called in physicians to treat my case, but without relief. Finally, I tried Cardui, and it gave perfect satisfaction. I recommend it to every sick woman." Are you weak, tired, worn-out? Do you suffer from any of the pains peculiar to weak woman? Cardui has a record of over fifty years in relieving such troubles, and will certainly benefit you. It prevents those frequent headaches, and keeps you up, out of bed, feeling happy. Try Cardui. Advertisement.

NOT ANY WAY IN HIS LINE

Chinese Doctor a Specialist in One Form of Ailment and Would Treat Nothing Else.

The Englishman knows how to serve and he knows how to be served, says Mr. Isaac Taylor Headland in "Home Life in China," but in the matter of service and serving even the Englishman must take a second place, for the Chinaman has specialized service as that has never been done in Great Britain.

We sometimes think we are specialists in the West. We have our eye specialists, a kind of servant, of course, although I simply use them to illustrate what I wish to say here; but they often combine with the treatment of the eye that of the ear, the nose and the throat. They have not got down to a last analysis of specializing as the Chinese doctor has.

A man had been shot with an arrow, the head of which was buried in the flesh. He tried to pull it out, but the skin had closed over the head, and he was not able to do so. He went to a physician to get him to remove it. The doctor promptly sawed the shaft off close to the skin, and then demanded his fee. "But," said the sufferer, "the head of the arrow is still inside."

"Quite right," said the doctor. "I am a specialist. I deal only with outside diseases. If you want the head taken out you will have to go to another specialist who cares for inside ailments."—Youth's Companion.

TOO ECONOMICAL

"Why did she break the engagement with Tom?" "She advised him to be economical, and he started by getting her an imitation diamond."
